WEDDINGS.

FLAGG STEVENS.

Last evening at eight o'clock, occurred one of the most notable social events of the season, the marriage of Miss Lucy Stevens and Mr. Edward Flagg. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's father, Mr. D. F. Stevens, River Street.

The Lutheran wedding march was played by Miss Mary McQueen and sung by Mrs. Sawtell and Mrs. Moore. The bride was escorted by the bridegroom, Mr. D. F. Stevens, and the bridesmaids, Misses Elizabeth Moore and Beatrice Edmonds, who as flower girls carried baskets of sweet peas and maid in hair fern.

The ceremony was performed by Doctor Fayer, Pastor of the Baptist Church and the bride was given away by her father, Mr. D. F. Stevens. Miss Winifred Bennett of Hart, Mich., was maid of honor and Mr. Middleton of Evanson, Ill., acted as best man.

The bride was gowned in white chiffon veiling trimmed with real lace and carried bride's roses. The maid of honor wore blue muslin and carried pink sweet peas. After the ceremony refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Flagg left on a night train for a lake trip and expect to visit in Mich. before their return. About seventy were present at the wedding. The out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stevens, Greenville, Miss.; Mr. and Mrs. Flagg, Pawtucket, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Bennett and Miss Winifred Bennett, Hart, Mich.; Mr. Middleton, Evanson, Ill.; Geo. Stevens, Rockford, Ill.

The newly wedded pair are well known in our city, Miss Stevens being one of our popular young ladies and Mr. Flagg is a young man much respected by our business men and holds a prominent position in Rhinelander Paper Mills. They will be warmly welcomed on their return, by a host of friends. Presents are many and elegant.

LEADBETTER KING.

Lorenzo A. Leadbetter of Rhinelander, formerly of this city, and Miss Anna B. King of Madison were married at Madison Wednesday. The wedding was a quiet family affair and was followed by a short trip, after which the young couple will return to Rhinelander, where they will board for the present. The happy guest from here were Mrs. Eliza Leadbetter, mother of the groom, and Ray Clark, who acted as best man. The groom has been employed in the Merchants State Bank at Rhinelander for the past four years and at present holds the position of assistant cashier and bookkeeper. He is the only son of Mrs. Eliza Leadbetter and was raised in this city. He is a graduate of the local High School and served an apprenticeship in the First National Bank of this city. He is a young man who enjoys the respect and confidence of all his acquaintances and will no doubt shortly be numbered among the substantial citizens of Rhinelander. Stevens Point Journal.

For the past two years Miss King had charge of work in English in Rhinelander High School. It would be difficult to find a teacher as popular as she among pupils and this popularity was not confined to pupils. Mr. Leadbetter has been in the city several years in the employ of the Merchants State Bank and has found a wide circle of friends.

WEDDER-MILLER

At the home of the groom's father Henry Wabker, in the town of Newbold, there took place last Wednesday at high noon the wedding of Henry Wabker Jr. to Miss Glena Miller. The ceremony was performed by Justice F. M. Mason of this city. About twenty guests were present. The groom was attended by his brother John and the bride by Miss Catherine Wabker. The ceremony was followed by a sumptuous repast. The young couple have many friends in Rhinelander who extend best wishes.

SUPR. COLLINS ARRIVES.

W. B. Collins, City Supt. of School and bride, arrived in Rhinelander last Thursday. Mr. Collins comes to this city from Plymouth with a splendid reputation as School man. He is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and has done postgraduate work at Chicago University. He is now making preparations to open school Monday, Sept. 17th. He will conduct teacher's examination, Friday and conduct teacher meeting Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Collins will occupy the residence of S. G. Tuttle on Polham Street.

STORM DOES DAMAGE.

The storm Tuesday afternoon did a great deal of damage about the city. The big plate glass front in the Nichols Hardware Company's store was blown in, as was also window in the Racket Store and Lindgren's Trading Post. Two big pine trees in the library yard were blown down and a number of shade trees in the residence portion were ruined.

ELECTION PROVES STALWART DEFEAT.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 8.—Senator La Follette is awaiting the result of the Republican platform meeting, called by State Chairman W. D. Connor, in accordance with the primary election law, at Madison, Sept. 25, before he makes announcement of his views as to the situation in this state.

The people who were shouting that the primaries showed a great victory for the stalwarts are much more quiet, as the returns show disastrous results to stalwart candidates for the legislature. It is observed that not a stalwart secured a place on the state ticket. In fact, there was only one candidate in the field who declared himself a true stalwart. He was Wallace Loggins of Racine, and he ran for the office of State Auditor. C. A. A. McGee for attorney general, William H. Froehlich, who four years ago was identified with the stalwart organization, made no stalwart pretensions in his candidacy for the nomination for secretary of state. The latest returns clearly indicate the nomination of Senator J. A. Frear, the La Follette leader to two sessions of the assembly and a leader in the last session of the senate.

It is beginning to appear that the only comfort the stalwarts got out of the primaries was the belief that they had been able to defeat the personal choice of La Follette for governor, and about all Judge E. W. Keyes, Senator Spooner and "Jim" Monahan are now claiming is that there is now no longer an excuse to use the terms stalwart and "half-breed" as defining opposing factions of the Republican party. The stalwarts, including even Senator Spooner, through the recent primary election, are even able to see merit in the La Follette nominating system, which they opposed bitterly for a decade as populist destructive of party government and impractical.

It seems certain out here that the platform adopted by the Republican candidates and hold-over senators the last of this month will not be retrogression from the principles of the party for the last four campaigns and this being the case there is no longer any substantial doubt but that Senator La Follette will be found in the speaking campaign. NOW AT INDIANAPOLIS.

The members of Co. L 2nd Reg. W. N. G. departed Saturday morning over the Northwestern at 10:15 for Indianapolis, Ind., near where they will spend two weeks, with other Companies of the Regiment at army maneuvers. To send the 2nd Regiment to this encampment the state made an appropriation of $25,000. The boys will be given training such as prevails in the regular army and will be under discipline of the strictest order. The work, during their stay, will consist of several long marches guaranteed to test their physical endurance to the limit. Lieut. D. H. Walker has promised The New North a letter regarding life at camp, which we will probably receive in time to publish in our next issue.

HOME TALENT MINSTRELS.

Preparation are now under way for a home talent minstrel performance, which will be put on in this city during the fortnight of October, and which promises to be one of the best entertainments of the kind ever given here by local talent. The program which has already been arranged contains every thing one would expect to find in first-class minstrelsy including an elaborate first part and a number of comic character sketches. Catchy music by a six piece orchestra will be one of the features of the evening. All assuming part in this entertainment are people well known in the city, the majority of whom have previously appeared before the local foot lights. Watch The New North for future announcement regarding this big attraction.

SHOT BLACK BEAR.

A black bear weighing one hundred and fifty pounds was shot at White Birch Resort, near Eagle River, by A. L. Rolland of St. Louis, local freight agent for the Mobile & Ohio Railway Company. Mr. Rolland and Peter Stein, proprietor of the resort, were anchored on a bar about half a mile from shore fishing, the bear swam out to them. Rolland was evidently in the mood for an attack and the gentlemen claim that his death was necessary for their own safety.

MR. PHILLIPS RESIGNS.

James Phillips has tendered his resignation as engineer of the city of Ashland and left last Sunday evening for New Orleans. Mr. Phillips has accepted a position with a large lumber company in the south and will survey a line for a new railroad. The gentleman is the civil engineer who did the grading in this city for the new street improvements.

DEATHS.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Philipp died Thursday. The little one had been ill for several days. The funeral was held Friday afternoon at two o'clock from the Catholic Church. Mr. Philipp, the father, left a month ago for a visit in Germany.

Mrs. Edward Fredrickson, aged thirty-two years died at her home in this city Tuesday Sept. 11th. The lady had been ill only a few days. A husband and three children survive her. The funeral was held last Thursday afternoon from the Free Methodist Church and interment took place at Forest Home cemetery. The three children were taken to Waupaca Monday by Mr. Fredrickson, where they will make their home with the grandparents.

Charley Richards of Point Bluff, Wood County, one of the best pilots who ever ran on the Wisconsin river died last Thursday at Arbor Vitae. He was seventy-two years of age. He was Stewart Brothers' favorite pilot for sixteen years, was always liked by his crews and a kind and generous friend to all his acquaintances. His death is deeply mourned.

Just as we go to press a telegram is received announcing the death at Minneapolis of Little Val. Recker, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Recker.

WHITE RIVER POWER CO.

The capitalists who organized and developed the large waterpower at Rhinelander have filed incorporation papers at Madison for White River Power Co. with a capital stock of $200,000. The company will build a dam at White River and develop electric power which will be transmitted to Ashland for light and power purposes. The company has been very successful with their water power at Rhinelander and many of the factories in this city were induced to locate there because of the cheap power.

The company proposes to build its dam across White River about six miles from the city limits and has already purchased all flowage rights along the stream at that point. Engineers estimate that 3000 horse power can be developed and work will be started at once upon the construction of a stone and timber dam which will be over one hundred feet in length and twenty-five feet high. The power house will contain three sets of two wheels and the 500 K. W. generator. It is expected that work will start immediately and the current will be first turned on in March. Ashland News.

AIDS TAFT FOR PRESIDENT.

Washington, D. C. Sept. 7.—President Roosevelt has brought about a compromise among the Ohio Republican factions, and there will be no opposition to the endorsement of William H. Taft for the Republican state convention, according to those in touch with Roosevelt and Ohio Republicans. When Senator Dick was here, after a visit at Orster Bay, he said the president would support the Foraker-Dick combination in the state convention. It is now asserted that the Foraker-Dick forces will be for Taft. Foraker has been regarded as a formidable candidate for presidential nomination.

NOT KNOWN HERE.

The I. O. O. F. lodge of this city received the following telegram, Monday, from Cataldo, Idaho: "Berth Peckham died at Cripple Creek, Colo., notify his mother." Signed I. O. O. F. The name Peckham does not appear in the city directory neither does any person of that name receive mail at the local post-office. Officers of the I. O. O. F. lodge have made considerable attempt to locate the dead man's mother, but so far their efforts have proved fruitless.

PRESIDENT COMMUTES SENTENCE.

President Roosevelt has commuted the sentence of Lizzie Cardish, an Indian girl age 15 years, from life imprisonment to confinement in some reformatory until she is 21 years of age. On June 6th the girl was convicted of arson in setting fire to the Indian school building on the Menominee reservation, to escape going to school.

INDIANS DID NOT VOTE.

Appleton, Wis., Sept. 6.—Because the two men in whose charge arrangements for primary election at Onida was left, failed to appear on the reservation last Tuesday, the Indians did not vote and the polls were not opened on primary election day. Free Press.

STILL IN THE RING.

It is surprising that anyone should be so short sighted as to indulge, like the organ, in rejoicings upon La Follette's being closed out. Such gratulations are premature. He has met with a defeat, but that this can have any determining influence on his future is improbable. Those who are exclaiming in glee lost sight of the fact that La Follette's future is a national affair. Nearly a whole six years in the senate lies ahead of him, ensuring him an opportunity to range himself unequivocally on questions of national importance. At the least he is certain to make a record as an uncompromising advocate of popular rights as against moneyed or corporate privilege; at most, he may make his senatorial term the beginning of a notable career. There is need of a leader committed to the things he stands for, and whether he be that leader or not depends upon himself, not in the least upon the result of any election here in Wisconsin.

Many causes contributed to the defeat of La Follette's candidate. An able organizer had been shaping things in his absence. The primary law in its present form has given a chance to Democrats to name the candidate of the Republican party. Also there were hundreds of voters who, with unabated loyalty to La Follette, were unable to agree with his choice of candidate. To them the second term tradition, with the personal qualities of Gov. Davidson and the long stood for principles La Follette advocated, was decisive. All these combined to compass a defeat of La Follette's candidate. That it would have been easier to leave it alone did not enter into his calculations. The senator is a man desperately in earnest, a fighter in every fiber, and it was idle to expect him to keep out of the fray at the counsel of prudence. His personal choice of candidate has been over-ruled; but the principles he advocated stand upon the statute books and live in the convictions that make Wisconsin in all matters of political reform a stronghold of enlightened sentiment. His achievements and his future remain to him. Either is a rich endowment for a statesman. Free Press.

Dan Patch, the world's famous pacer, breaks his record at Minnesota Fair by making the mile in 1:55 flat.

In the ninth district, Minor was defeated by Gustav Keusterman over which good citizens rejoice. Mr. Minor received three votes as a National Republican and may run on that ticket. It is a great struggle for some of those old timers to cease feeling at the public crib.

The Minnesota State Fair was a success in exhibit, weather and attendance. From year to year the fair has grown until now it is a small exposition. We were not a little surprised to find one of the finest exhibits in poultry was from Roberts of Port Atkinson, Wis.

The Jewell Nursery Co. of Lake City, Minn., had a display of apples, of this year's crop that would show up with any exhibit of the kind, either at the World's Fair at Chicago or at the St. Louis Exposition.

The races were very good. Dan Patch the pacer, proved the greatest attraction in that line and the biggest attendance was on the days that he paced.

The industrial features were on a big scale and in several cases one concern occupied a whole building.

There was vaudeville between races in the afternoon and continuous vaudeville in the evening. Some very good entertainers were at the headquarters of Federated Clubs. In fact one would have to spend the whole week there to take in the many attractions. Those who have not had the privilege of seeing a World's Fair can find a miniature one at the Minnesota State Fair.

This attraction will be at the Grand next Wednesday night.

FIRST PRIMARY ELECTION.

The Republican State ticket is unusually strong. As one glance down the list, he finds strong men who have been on the right side of all public questions. The county ticket ought to be a winner. Some of the candidates have held their respective offices several years and are nominated without opposition from either party. Those who had opposition at the primaries are nominated by clear-cut majorities, consequently are entitled to the vote of every Republican at the election in November. While we might differ on a whole range of the ticket as a whole, ought to be a satisfactory majority "Republican."

Rhineland, Wis.
Gentlemen—Messrs. Leachman & Esling, Rhineland, W. V., had been well known, which they thought well to let this had occurred.

They had sold a customer 18 gallons of paint to paint his house. A few years later, they sold the same man 18 gallons of paint, the same number of gallons to paint the same house. He had ten dollars left.

He paid the balance 11 gallons of paint, that is all.

Who does 18 gallons of paint go as far as 18 gallons of butter paint? Because it is all paint, all true, no sham and full measure.

But that isn't all. Devoe lasts longer. No, no, you haven't got to wait ten years to find that out. Ten thousand people know it. We've got their names. Our agents know them; they think a heap of Devoe. There's no difficulty in showing you to any people what to expect of Devoe. $10 will paint a 15 house, and the paint'll last twice as long.

WEDDINGS.

FLAGG-STEVENS.
Last evening at eight o'clock, occurred one of the most notable social events of the season, the marriage of Miss Lucy Stevens and Mr. Edward Flagg. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's father, Mr. B. F. Stevens, River Street. The Lohengrin wedding march was played by Miss Mary McQueen and sung by Mrs. Sawtell and Mrs. Moore. The bridal party was conducted to a bower of flowers, intermixed with similar, by the Misses Elizabeth Moore and Beatrice Edmonds, who as flower girls carried baskets of sweetpeas and maiden hair fern.

The ceremony was performed by Doctor Fayer, Pastor of the Baptist Church and the bride was given away by her father, Mr. B. F. Stevens. Miss Winifred Bennett of Hart, Mich., was maid of honor and Mr. Middleton of Evanson, Ill., acted as best man.

The bride was gowned in white chiffon veiling trimmed with real lace and carried bride's roses. The maid of honor wore blue mulle and carried pink sweet peas. After the ceremony refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Flagg left on a night train for a lake trip and expect to visit in Mich., before their return. About seventy were present at the wedding. The out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stevens, Greenville, Miss.; Mr. and Mrs. Flagg, Pontwater, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Bennett and Miss Winifred Bennett, Hart Mich.; Mr. Middleton, Evanson, Ill.; Geo. Stevens, Rockford, Ill.

The newly wedded pair are well known in our city. Miss Stevens being one of our popular young ladies and Mr. Flagg is a young man much respected by our business men and holds a prominent position in Rhinelander Paper Mills. They will be warmly welcomed on their return, by a host of friends. Presents are many and elegant.

LEADBETTER KING.

Lorenzo A. Leadbetter of Rhinelander, formerly of this city, and Miss Anna B. King of Madison were married at Madison Wednesday. The wedding was a quiet family affair and was followed by a short trip, after which the young couple will return to Rhinelander, where they will be warmly welcomed on their return, by a host of friends. Presents are many and elegant.

For the past two years Miss King had charge of work in English in Rhinelander High School. It would be difficult to find a teacher as popular as she among her pupils and this popularity was not confined to pupils. Mr. Leadbetter has been in the City several years in the employ of the Merchants State Bank and has found a wide circle of friends.

WEDDER-MILLER.

At the home of the groom's father Henry Wabker, in the Town of Newbold, there took place last Wednesday at high noon the wedding of Henry Wabker Jr. to Miss Glenae Miller. The ceremony was performed by Justice F. M. Mason of this city. About twenty guests were present. The groom was attended by his brother John and the bride by Miss Catherine Wabker. The ceremony was followed by a sumptuous repast. The young couple have many friends in Rhinelander who extend best wishes.

SUPT. COLLINS ARRIVES.

W. B. Collins, City Supt. of School and bride, arrived in Rhinelander last Thursday. Mr. Collins comes to this city from Plymouth with a splendid reputation as a school man. He is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and has done post-graduate work at Chicago University. He is now making preparations to open school Monday, Sept. 17th. He will conduct teacher's examination, Friday and conduct teacher meeting Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Collins will occupy the residence of S. O. Tuttle on Pkham Street.

STORM DOES DAMAGE.

The storm Tuesday afternoon did a great deal of damage about the city. The big plate glass front in the Nichols Hardware Company's store was blown in, as was also windows in the Racket Store and Lindgren's Trading Post. Two big pine trees in the library yard were blown down and a number of shade trees in the residence portion were ruined.

ELECTION PROVES STALWART DEFEAT.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 8.—Senator La Follette is awaiting the result of the Republican platform meeting, called by State Chairman W. D. Connor, in accordance with the primary election law, at Madison, Sept. 25, before he makes announcement of his views as to the situation in this state.

The people who were shouting that the primaries showed a great victory for the stalwarts are much more quiet, as the returns show disastrous results to stalwart candidates for the legislature. It is observed that not a stalwart secured a place on the state ticket. In fact, there was only one candidate in the field who declared himself a true stalwart. He was Wallace Logan of Racine, and he ran far behind Frank J. Gilbert and C. A. A. McFie for attorney general. William H. Froehlich, who four years ago was identified with the stalwart organization, made no stalwart pretensions in his candidacy for the nomination for secretary of state. The latest returns clearly indicate the nomination of Senator J. A. Frear, the La Follette leader in two sessions of the assembly and a leader in the last session of the senate.

It is beginning to appear that the only comfort the stalwarts got out of the primaries was the belief that they had been able to defeat the personal choice of La Follette for governor, and about all Judge E. W. Keyes, Senator Spooner and "Jim" Monahan are now claiming is that there is now no longer an excuse to use the terms stalwart and "half-breed" as denoting opposing factions of the Republican party. The stalwarts, including even Senator Spooner, through the recent primary election, are even able to see merit in the La Follette nominating system, which they opposed bitterly for a decade as populist destructive of party government and impractical. It seems certain out here that the platform adopted by the Republican candidates and held over senators the last of this month will not be a retrogression from the principles of the party for the last four campaigns and this being the case there is no longer any substantial doubt but that Senator La Follette will be found in the speaking campaign.—Milwaukee Free Press.

NOW AT INDIANAPOLIS.

The members of Co. I, 2nd Reg., W. N. G., departed Saturday morning over the Northwestern at 10:15 for Indianapolis, Ind., near where they will spend two weeks, with other Companies of the Regiment at army maneuvers. To send the 2nd Regiment to this encampment the state made an appropriation of $25,000. The boys will be given training such as prevails in the regular army and will be under discipline of the strictest order. The work, during their stay, will consist of several long marches guaranteed to test their physical endurance to the limit. Lieut. D. H. Walker has promised The New North a letter regarding life at camp, which we will probably receive in time to publish in our next issue.

HOME TALENT MINSTRELS.

Preparation are now under way for a home talent minstrel performance, which will be put on in this city during the fortnight of October, and which promises to be one of the best entertainments of the kind ever given here by local talent. The program which has already been arranged contains every thing one would expect to find in first class minstrelsy including an elaborate first part and a number of comic character sketches. Catchy music by a six piece orchestra will be one of the features of the evening. All assembling part in this entertainment are people well known in the city, the majority of whom have previously appeared before the local foot lights. Watch The New North for future announcement regarding this big attraction.

SHOT BLACK BEAR.

A black bear weighing one hundred and fifty pounds was shot at White Birch Resort, near Eagle River, by A. L. Pollard of St. Louis, local freight agent for the Mobile & Ohio Railway Company. Mr. Pollard and Peter Stefn, proprietor of the resort, were anchored on a bar about half a mile from shore fishing, the bear swam out to them. Brains was evidently in the mood for an attack and the gentlemen claim that his death was necessary for their own safety.

MR. PHILLIPS RESIGNS.

James Phillips has tendered his resignation as engineer of the city of Ashland and left last Sunday evening for New Orleans. Mr. Phillips has accepted a position with a large lumber company in the south and will survey a line for a new railroad. The gentleman is the civil engineer who did the grading in this city for the new street improvements.

DEATHS.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Philipp died Thursday. The little one had been ill for several days. The funeral was held Friday afternoon at two o'clock from the Catholic church. Mr. Phillips, the father, left a month ago for a visit to Germany.

Mrs. Edward Fredrickson, aged thirty-two years died at her home in this city Tuesday Sept. 10th. The lady had been ill only a few days. A husband and three children survive her. The funeral was held last Thursday afternoon from the Free Methodist Church and interment took place at Forest Home cemetery. The three children were taken to Waupesa Monday by Mr. Frederickson, where they will make their home with their grand parents.

Charley Richards of Point Bluff, Wood County, one of the best pilots who ever ran on the Wisconsin river died last Thursday at Arbor Vitae. He was seventy-two years of age. He was Stewart Brothers' favorite pilot for sixteen years, was always liked by his crews and a kind and generous friend to all his acquaintances. His death is deeply mourned.

Just as we go to press a telegram is received announcing the death at Minneapolis of little Val Becker, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Becker.

WHITE RIVER POWER CO.

The capitalists who organized and developed the large waterpower at Rhinelander have filed incorporation papers at Madison for White River Power Co. with a capital stock of $200,000. The company will build a dam at White River and develop electric power which will be transmitted to Ashland for light and power purposes. The company has been very successful with their water power at Rhinelander and many of the factories in this city were induced to locate there because of the cheap power.

The company proposed to build its dam across White River about six miles from the city's limits and has already purchased all flowage rights along the stream at that point. Engineers estimate that 5000 horse power can be developed and work will be started at once upon the construction of a stone and timber dam which will be over one hundred feet in length and twenty-five feet high. The power house will contain three sets of twin wheels and the 500 K. W. generator. It is expected that the work will start immediately and the current will be first turned on in March.—Ashland News.

AIDS TAFT FOR PRESIDENT.

Washington, D. C. Sept. 7.—President Roosevelt has brought about a compromise among the Ohio Republican factions, and there will be no opposition to the endorsement of William H. Taft for the Republican state convention, according to those in touch with Roosevelt and Ohio Republicans.

When Senator Dick was here, after a visit at Oyster Bay, he said the president would support the Foraker-Dick combination in the state convention. It is now asserted that the Foraker-Dick forces will be for Taft. Foraker has been regarded as a formidable candidate for presidential nomination.

NOT KNOWN HERE.

The L. O. O. F. lodge of this city received the following telegram, Monday, from Cataldo, Idaho: "Berth Peckham died at Cripple Creek, Colo., notify his mother." Signed L. O. O. F. The name Peckham does not appear in the city directory neither does any person of that name receive mail at the local post-office. Officers of the L. O. O. F. lodge have made considerable attempt to locate the dead man's mother, but so far their efforts have proved fruitless.

PRESIDENT COMMUTES SENTENCE.

President Roosevelt has commuted the sentence of Lizzie Cardish, an Indian girl age 15 years, from life imprisonment to confinement in some reformatory until she is 21 years of age. On June 10th the girl was convicted of arson in setting fire to the Indian school building on the Menominee reservation, to escape going to school.

INDIANS DID NOT VOTE.

Appleton, Wis., Sept. 6.—Because the two men in whose charge arrangements for primary election at Ouefka was left, failed to appear on the reservation last Tuesday, the Indians did not vote and the polls were not opened on primary election day.—Free Press.

STILL IN THE RING.

It is surprising that any one should be so short-sighted as to lodge, like the organ, in rejoicings upon La Follette's being closed out. Such gratulations are premature. He has met with a defeat, but that this can have any determining influence on his future is improbable. Those who are exclaiming in glee lost sight of the fact that La Follette's future is a national affair. Nearly a whole six years in the senate lies ahead of him, ensuring him an opportunity to range himself unequivocally on questions of national importance. At the least he is certain to make a record as an uncompromising advocate of popular rights as against moneyed or corporate privilege; at most, he may make his senatorial term the beginning of a notable career. There is need of a leader committed to the things he stands for, and whether he be that leader or not depends upon himself, not in the least upon the result of any election here in Wisconsin.

Many causes contributed to the defeat of La Follette's candidate. An able organizer had been shaping things in his absence. The primary law in its present form has given a chance to Democrats to name the candidate of the Republican party. Also there were hundreds of voters who, with unabated loyalty to La Follette, were unable to agree with his choice of candidate. To them the second term tradition, with the personal qualities of Gov. Davidson and the long stood for principles La Follette advocated, was decisive. All these combined to compass a defeat of La Follette's candidate. That it would have been able to leave it alone did not enter into his calculations. The senator is a man desperately in earnest, a fighter in every fiber, and it was his to expect him to keep out of the fray at the counsel of prudence. His personal choice of candidate has been over-ruled; but the principles he advocated stand upon the statute books and live in the convictions that make Wisconsin in all matters of political reform a stronghold of enlightened sentiment. His achievements and his future remain to him. Either is a rich endowment for a statesman.—Free Press.

The Household Devil of Sam Louie

By E. Spence De Pue

(Copyright by Joseph B. Bowles)

In the very heart of San Francisco in a certain breathing place called Portsmouth square stood little Quong Ling on a summer day.

Across the grass came another figure; a little taller, a little older than Quong Ling, and neither white nor Chinese, but a part of both. When it was directly behind the Chinese boy it shot out its hands and clapped them lightly over the other's eyes, and cried in a merry voice:

"Who?"

"Ming Foo, of course," was the prompt response.

They curled themselves comfortably on the grass, near the edge of the gravel path, content as two young animals.

"Here comes Sam Louie," cried Ming Foo, suddenly; "he's going to stop."

"Ho, little rascal, do you have naught to do but idle?" asked Sam Louie softly, as he paused a moment. "Nothing, honorable friend, but to idle and tell stories."

"Well, if that be all, let this add to the pleasures of thy idleness; catch!" Cutting off a generous piece of sugarcane from one of the sticks he carried, he tossed it into the air and passed on.

For the time all else was forgotten in the pleasurable crunch of teeth upon the succulent cane. Forgotten till a fat, sleek Chinaman, in American apparel, and another Chinaman, with a great red scar across his cheek, passed by, and a word or so floated to the always wide-open ears of Ming Foo.

"Understand! There ought to be about three thousand dollars, and you must get every cent of it!" That was all, but it was enough to arrest a pair of stout young jaws midway in the act of sending a set of white teeth into the juicy wood. Enough to cause Ming Foo to stare wonderingly after the retreating pair, and note that they settled themselves on a bench and that they were joined by a third Chinaman.

In the last arrival Ming Foo recognized a hatterman of the Ping Kong tong. His eyes danced joyously, and thrusting his stumpy piece of cane within his blouse, he pulled Quong Ling's ear down close to his lips, whispered something, then scampered off and left the smaller boy wondering and watching the patched trousers as they disappeared around a corner.

Quong Ling's patience had become almost exhausted when one of the three men on the bench wandered off; in another moment the other two parted, going in opposite directions; and, as he held his gaze on the empty bench, he saw a battered cap and a close-cropped head rise from the low shrubbery just behind it.

"Oh, Quong Ling, Quong Ling, Quong-a-ling-a-ling," he sang, dancing around on the tips of his toes. "Big, biggest thing ever, eh? We're going to do a big thing to-night. Come along with me and I'll tell you all about it."

With many gesticulations and contortions and swellings of the chest, Ming Foo told what he had heard as he lay in the shrubbery. How, on this night, the store of Ming Gum, for whom Sam Louie worked, was to be robbed; that it was to punish the proprietor for daring to cross the hatterman in refusing to refuse to bear false witness in some matter before the police; as well as to gain the money. That there were things and mysteries back of this—that it had to do with the tong, and much more. So that in the end, Quong Ling, quivered with the mystery and excitement of it, and Ming Foo, striking his robust little chest, fairly hissed:

"Ain't it big? Ain't we going to stop it; ain't we going to do more than big detectives would?"

When the smaller adventurer asked, "How?" Ming Foo grew in stature as he exclaimed:

"Never mind! You come with me, I'll show you! I'm white!"

Possibly it was owing to that little streak of white in him that the following things happened. He was only lit, but he knew very much, and Quong Ling was his devoted admirer.

There was no place in the quarter of which Ming Foo did not have the run. Every cypress joint was to him a home and a place to lay his head; every pawnshop was his museum, and the theater was his special place of patronage; so that it was with no difficulty that he gained for himself and follower admission to this place of amusement. He strutted across the stage and to the dressing room behind, and got in people's way, and bullied the actors, and finally disappeared in the depths below—and the fact was not even noticed.

Among rows upon rows of masks—whole heads, some of them, in fact—racks of swords, miniature pagodas, thrones and ancient armor, they reposed undisturbed, and Ming Foo pulled and hauled the things about until finally he found these articles he should need—not a great deal, a paper mask of black hideous design and extraordinary proportions and a few yards of yellow silk. Nor was the removal of these things without detection in the smallest degree difficult nor beyond his resources.

The next thing was surreptitiously to possess themselves of a bank in the rear of Ming Gum's store without the knowledge of Sam Louie. This also was accomplished, though barely before the shutters were put up for the night.

After a long wait, Ming Foo cautiously put aside a corner of the mask and slipped to the door. Then he drew Quong Ling down beside him and they listened a moment, reached into the bank for the package which they had brought from the theater, slipped out of the sleeping room and made their way into the store.

"Here, this is it," Ming Foo whispered, selecting a place behind a low pile of boxes. "Now, let's tie this mask to you, and you are not to say a word till I tell you to speak; then, do it as loud as you can; as loud as you can," he repeated, nervously.

The mask, which was almost three feet in height, had two green horns at its top. To each of the horns Ming Foo tied a little bunch of peeks, with he lighted; as the pungent aroma floated through the room and mingled with the vegetable and animal odors, he gave three little perfunctory bows of his head. Next he tied, as best he could in the dark, this high mask to the body of his assistant.

They both warmed to the work and forgot to be afraid. Ming Foo took out a whole bunch of matches, spat upon them, rubbed the heads of matches, spat upon them, rubbed the heads with his fingers, and then transferred the phosphorescence to the face of the mask with quick, uneven little dabs.

Shuffle, shuffle, approaching steps without came to their ears distinctly. In front of the door some one halted, and even to the spot where the trembling boys stood the low whispering carried.

"Rap, bang! The pounding of the door reverberated through the room like a clap of thunder."

"Who's there?" came from the inner room. With a lighted candle in his hand which showed his sleep-swollen face and eyes, Sam Louie came shuffling out.

"Who's there?" he demanded, suspiciously, as he laid a hand upon the bar of the door. Ming Foo could see, for he had climbed up a little way on the boxes for that purpose.

"Now Gum, Open quickly," came the prompt response, in a low tone. Sam Louie half turned the bar, but, not all convinced, threw it back into place.

"How am I to know that it is Ming Gum?" he asked.

In answer to this there was a half-impatient oath. "Open, Sam Louie. Am I, Ming Gum, your employer, to be kept in the street and denied admission to my own place?"

In his growing excitement, Ming Foo climbed to top of the boxes. Sam Louie, evidently satisfied, threw down

"A Devil A Devil!" Howled the Others.

The door flew open as though a pressure had rested against it all the while. Silently, almost instantly, four villainous highlanders swarmed through the opening. Now that it was too late, Sam Louie saw the awful mistake that he had made. He gave a low, animal-like cry; the candle clattered to the floor; he tried to turn and run, but a ready hand reached for him.

One of them pressed the sharp point of a knife against his throat.

"Where is the key? Key to the safe," another demanded.

In answer Sam Louie tried to kick. "Press it in," was the command. The man with the knife dog it viciously into the prostrate man's neck.

The rather uncertain light of the street flickered in through the open door and made it all quite plain to Ming Foo.

"Now—when I say scream, do it loud," he whispered. Holding Quong Ling upon his shoulders he raised him till just the horns with the burning points were on a level with the tops of the boxes.

"If he don't tell, drive the knife clear in!" was the impatient command they heard, and it was instantly answered by a moan of pain from Sam Louie.

"Now!" prompted Ming Foo. And such a scream as it was! A scream of screams, in which there was all the voice and all the terror of Quong Ling, who could see nothing, and who had frightened himself by his own voice.

Sam Louie groaned, "A spirit!" "A devil! A devil!" howled the others, standing still to stare.

With a yell of fear from the intruders they scrambled and fell over themselves and each other in an effort to get into the street. Sam Louie had fainted, or he, too, would probably have done.

Then came the triumphant hour of Ming Foo, for, calmly setting Quong Ling on the floor, he made haste to bar the door. Then he danced a mad, effeminate and waved his battered cap aloft and shouted.

For many days yet to come it will be told how the household devil of Sam Louie came to his assistance and put to flight four of the most desperate fighters of the Ping Kong tong.

A Slumming Story.

Work among the poor and needy of the cities, often called "slumming," has its humorous side as well as pathetic, and is occasionally better understood than appreciated.

A wealthy lady, much given to visiting and assisting the poor, was one day visiting a woman in whom she sought to take an interest and assist if need be.

After inquiring into the general welfare of the family, financial and otherwise, and giving some judicious advice, she finally arose to depart with the remark that the world would again sometime, to which the woman gave a cordial assent and then said: "And I'm sure, ma'am, I'm sorry I can't be after returning your call, but I'm that busy, ma'am, I don't have any time to do any slumming's mess."

Weight Reducing Programme

"I am only a toilet specialist," said a Fifth Avenue, New York, glass front business woman, pulling down her lace curtains and preparing to treat a patient. "But I know a thing or two."

"I could give lessons to many a doctor in reducing the weight and it would surprise a great many so-called regular practitioners if they knew what I know."

"We beauty women have a great deal to contend with. Women come to us weighing twice as much as they ought to weigh. They ask us to treat the complexion."

"My face is as red as fire," said a corpulent woman, blowing in here one of the days when the thermometer was over the hundred mark, "and I want you to reduce the color. I don't like to have my face so red."

"I can't do anything for you, madam," said I, "unless you reduce your weight. You are way over the danger mark. You weigh almost 100 pounds more than you ought to weigh. Reduce your weight and the color will fade out of your face."

"She happened to be a sensible woman and she took my advice. She got to work at her figure and succeeded in reducing it. She took off more than 100 pounds. And when she had finished she was quite a pretty woman. Her figure was trim and her face was a normal color. You can't do much with a fat woman until you reduce her."

"My first advice to every woman who comes to me is to reduce the weight. Nearly all are too heavy and I frankly tell them so. Usually they are indignant and the majority tell me that it would be impossible. 'I am naturally fat,' they say. But I insist and after a little while they give in."

"When my patients bathe in the summer time I am always very particular to see that they get into a vigorous perspiration. All the pores of the skin must be open when one bathes. One must sweat profusely. The more one perspires the better. 'Sweat as hard as you can,' is my advice to the woman who wants to reduce."

"I advise two good baths a day. And both should be of a kind to wake up the skin. No matter whether they are hot or cold, one can take a little vigorous exercise afterward. And soon the perspiration will begin to run down the body. The woman who is reducing should buy a pair of Indian clubs. She can get inexpensive ones for a very little money and the lighter the weight the better for her. With these she can practice a few minutes after each bath. In this way she will be sure of getting in a glow. Her skin must be moist all over."

"Reducing the weight depends very largely upon what you eat. The fat woman will tell you differently, but she is mistaken. She grows fat because she eats a good deal of the wrong kind of food. She takes the things that are fat-producing. It is not so much the quantity of food that she eats as the kind of food she takes."

"The fat woman eats a great deal of ice cream. She loves all kinds of starch foods. She revels in corn and other sugary vegetables and she likes potatoes and cheese and all the starch things such as cereals, cream, milk, hot bread and butter and cake. It would seem as though some special perversity of taste kept her from eating the right kind of food."

"To make the fat woman happy give her something sweet. That is the only way to content her. She is uneasy until her appetite for preserves, pies, puddings and ice cream has been appeased."

"The thin woman, quite to the contrary, has a dietary of her own, and a wonderfully hygienic thing it is. Very often she is content at noon with a little of the white meat of fish and a cracker or two. She may take a tiny little cup of tea, perfectly clear, for she seldom puts sugar in her tea or her coffee."

"For breakfast the thin woman relies upon fruit. This she follows up with some poached eggs on toast. And this is all she wants. Often she takes dry toast and coffee and a little fruit. Almost any little thing is enough for her, yet she gets her full nourishment."

"When reducing one must also exercise. But exercise will hardly take off the fat. It is a very difficult way of reducing. You must work awfully hard for every ounce of flesh you take off your body. You must work as though you were working for a living. Your exercise ceases to become play and is downright hard work."

Care of the Feet.

Tender, smarting feet can well be numbered among the beauty ills. If possible have your shoes made for you and change them as often as you can. Wear fresh hosiery every morning, dusting them inside with equal parts of talcum powder and prepared chalk. Night and morning bathe the feet with warm water, to which a teaspoonful of baking soda has been added; afterward rub them with alcohol.

The Use of Whalebone.

When putting steel or whalebone in to a bodice, bend them slightly at the waist before putting into casing. You will find the bodice will fit to the figure much better.

As to Stray Cats.

A man of cats declares it is the worst of luck for a pet black cat to forsake your home. A woman of cats asserts it is the best of luck. In the middle ages Satan's favorite form was a black cat. Witches always have a cat as their familiar, stray black pussy in preference. If a white cat races across your yard a child is going to die. If a stray cat of any color takes up with you, making your home its home, you will have good luck.

A Bit Fearful.

"How shall we treat our critics?" asked the theatrical manager.

"Well, for gracious sake! Don't give them five-cent cigars!" replied the leading man.

BETTER THAN UNITED STATES!

Samland, It Is Asserted, Would Make a Good Name.

A certain class of minds has been at work for more than 100 years trying to construct an original designation in a single word for the United States of America. It was seriously proposed at first to call the republic Columbia, but no one wanted that, and finally New Granada, in South America, came along and appropriated the title. Samuel Whelpley, author of the "Compend of History," conducted a campaign in behalf of the word "Fredonia," which he considered more euphonious than "Fredonia," but succeeded only in getting the name attached to a village in this state, where it has been passed on to post-offices in a dozen other states of the union, says the New York Mail. Later the English kindly attempted to rechristen the country "Usocia" and the people "Usocians," by derivation from the magical initials "U. S. A." But common speech accepts none of these designations. "America" and "Americans" are good enough for the people, who see no propriety whatever in giving a continental designation to the republic and its citizens.

But the fact that no original designation has yet pleased the fancy of the people is no sure sign that none ever will. The International Mercantile Marine company has hit upon a name for one of its ships which has great popular picturesque possibilities. The steamer Mississippi of the Red Star line is to be rechristened Samland, in honor of Uncle Sam.

And "Samland" is good. Uncle Sam, the genial and shrewd abstraction of the republic, is dear to every heart. We can imagine "Samland" going from month to month until the application of it is transferred to the nation. After that Americans of the United States may be calling themselves Samlanders and the business will be done.

Cures Bright's Disease.

Let those afflicted with one form or another of Bright's disease take heart! Here comes from some of the grandmothers of the middle west and southwest a "sure cure." It was commonly used three-quarters of a century ago. Old Dr. Tip passes it along the line. It comes to him straight from a granddaughter of one of the grandmothers, a relation of Mrs. James G. Blaine: "Get some dried apples, the kind we used to have at home; not the evaporated kind. Pour boiling water over a kettleful of them and let them steep, covering the kettle tightly. When the water has absorbed the strength of the apples pour it off and drink it—lots of it—as much as you can hold; keep on steeping apples and keep on drinking the water. It will soon give you a new pair of kidneys. Then you can laugh at all other ailments, which will soon disappear when your kidneys resume operations."—N. Y. Press.

Don't Envy the Rich.

The real virtue of riches is that they add to the picturesqueness of life. Millionaires and even semi-millionaires do a great deal toward brightening the landscape, and we ought not only to envy them, but to be grateful to them. Who would willingly miss the gay pageant down Fifth Avenue on a spring afternoon, and reduce the beautiful city with its glad decoration of well-dressed people to the gray level of the willing poor? No; the world is best constituted just as it is, with all the varieties of the people, and all the varying scales of being and of dressing. Only let the man not yet doomed to being a millionaire realize that, like the purple crow, it is better to see than to be one. And joy, after all, is really and truly not to be bought with money, nor to be found in any distant corner of the earth, but is, in very deed, as the sages have known in all ages, the kingdom of heaven within.—Harper's Magazine.

Yellow Beauty Powder Now.

The latest invention of a certain "beauty doctor" is yellow powder. The "doctor" learned his little secret from the fascinating maidens and squaws of a Canadian Indian settlement. The powder is not a really golden yellow; it merely has that rich, creamy brown tint that is seen in the skins of Indian girls and some of the dusker maids of our own race also. It is made by the simple process of burning a little of the chalk on a rock set in the sun and mixing the burnt chalk with the white until the creamy color is obtained.

"The only trouble in marketing this new powder," remarked the "doctor," "is to find any woman sallow or black enough to acknowledge that she needs yellow powder. The most bilious-looking creature I ever knew would rather make a white sepulchre of herself than acknowledge to her own soul that she is anything but milk and roses."

Limited Number of Attorneys.

In some old records just discovered in a Suffolk parish appears the following entry of a statute passed in 1554, the second year of the reign of Queen Mary: "That there used to be six or eight attorneys only for Suffolk, Norfolk and Norwich together; that this number has increased to more than 50, most part of whom, having not sufficient knowledge, come to fairs, etc., leading the people to small trespasses that they may get employment, wherefore there shall be hereafter six for Norfolk, six for Suffolk and two for the city of Norwich."

STOMACH PAINS

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Brought Relief, and Cure for Spitting Headaches as Well.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a remedy which has been before the American people for a generation, is still accomplishing wonderful results as is evidenced by the following interview with Mrs. Rachel Gardner, of Wilsey, Kans.

"It was very strange," she says, "I never could tell what caused it and neither could anybody else. For a long time I had had spells with my stomach. The pain would commence about my heart and was so deadly agonizing that I would have to come around and I would have to take laudanum to stop it. Besides this I had a headache almost constantly, day and night, that nearly crazed me, so you see I suffered a great deal. And when I think of the agony I endured it still makes me shudder."

"Doctors," did you say? This medicine made me sicker. I couldn't take it and I kept growing worse until a friend advised me to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I did. I began to feel better and was soon wholly converted to this wonderful medicine. It did me more good than I had ever hoped for. I kept on with the pills and now I recommend them to all who suffer."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured severe cases of indigestion, bloodlessness, influenza, headaches, backaches, lumbago, sciatica, neuralgia, nervousness and spinal weakness. The genuine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are guaranteed to be free from opiates or any harmful drugs and cannot injure the delicate system. LEFT THE BABY BEHIND.

The Nurse Had the Carriage, But the "Baby" Was Missing.

Mrs. Maud Miller Hipple, whose advocacy of a course in "motherhood" for young matrons has already begun to bear good fruit, was talking of the duties of young mothers.

"And no young mother," she said, "no matter how many her millions nor how high her station, should trust her little one entirely to a nurse's care. A nurse may be the most intelligent, most conscientious; but to rear a baby properly is a difficult task, and only one person is sufficiently interested in this task to perform it well. That person is the baby's mother."

Mrs. Hipple smiled.

"A young mother," she said, "was walking with her husband on the Atlantic City board walk. Suddenly she gave a little cry of pleasure."

"Oh, she said, 'there is nurse—nurse wheeling baby.'"

"And she ran lightly to the luxurious coach of leather, with its swan-shaped carriage and its rubber-tired wheels, and she pushed back the parasol that shaded the occupant from the sun."

"Then she gave a great start."

"Why, nurse," she cried, "where's baby?"

"The nurse gasped. 'Goodness gracious, ma'am! I forgot to put him in!'"

Something Wrong.

"Why did you fall to show up for the performance last night?" asked the sobrette. "Were you sick?"

"No," replied the comedian. "I wasn't exactly sick, but I felt funny."

Eruptions Appeared on Chest, and Face and Neck Were All Broken Out—Cured by Cuticura.

"I had an eruption appear on my chest and body and extend upwards and downwards, so that my neck and face were all broken out; also my arms and the lower limbs as far as the knees. I at first thought it was prickly heat. But soon scales or crusts formed over the breaking out. Instead of going to a physician I purchased a complete treatment of the Cuticura Remedies, in which I had great faith, and all was satisfactory. A year or two later the eruption appeared again, only a little lower; but before it had time to spread I procured another supply of the Cuticura Remedies, and continued their use until the cure was complete. It is now five years since the last attack, and have not seen any signs of a return. I have more faith in Cuticura Remedies for skin diseases than anything I know of. Emma E. Wilson, Liscomb, Iowa, Oct. 1, 1905."

His Scheme Worked.

It is related that a certain man was recently very sad because his wife had gone out of town on a visit, which she would not shorten in spite of his appeals to her to come home. He finally hit upon a plan to induce her to return. He sent her a copy of each of the local papers with one item clipped out, and when she wrote him about what it was he had clipped out he refused to tell her.

The scheme worked admirably! In less than a week she was home to find out what it was that had been going on that her husband didn't want her to know about.—Pittsburgh Press.

Subject for Another Lecture.

"Oh, dear," exclaimed Mrs. Slapdash, when they were finally seated in the carriage, "I've only got one of my earrings on. I left the other on my dressing table."

"Hah!" granted her husband, "just like my lectures on your carelessness—in one ear and out the other."

"Ye c'dn't arrest me fr that," asserted Mrs. Flynn.

The Age of Lead.

We are wont to speak of this era as the "age of iron," and there is no denying that, industrially speaking, iron is a "precious metal."

Nevertheless, few people realize how useful, if not absolutely necessary, to modern civilization, is that other metal, lead. Soft, yielding, pliable, it is not much like its sister metal, but those distinguishing qualities are what give it such a prominent place in the arts and industries.

Modern plumbing, requiring many turnings and twistings, but without tight joints, would be almost impossible without lead pipe. The great civilizing agent in the world—the printing art—is absolutely dependent on lead. Handset type, linotype "alloys," monotype type—all are made of compositions of which lead is the chief component—to say nothing of the bearings in the presses as well as all other kinds of machinery in which "babbling" metal is used.

Solder is another lead product—what a field of usefulness that one form opens up.

Then there is the most important use of all to which lead is put—paint, that necessary material which keeps our houses looking pretty—inside and out—and preserves them from decay.

How many of us think metallic lead for the comforts of paint? Yet the best house paint is nothing but metallic lead corroded by acid to a white powder known as "white lead."

Of course, there are many imitations of "white lead," some of which are sold as white lead and some which are offered by the name of ready-prepared paint under the familiar pretense that they are "just as good" as white lead. But all good paint is made of the metal, lead, corroded and ground to a fine white powder and mixed with linseed oil.

White lead is also used in the coating of fine oil cloths and for many purposes besides paint.

"Red lead" is another product of metallic lead and is what is known as an oxide of lead, being produced by burning the metal. Red lead is the best paint known to preserve iron, steel or tin, and is used largely in painting metal structures, such as skyscraper skeletons, mills and bridges.

There are many other products of the metal lead, such as, litharge, orange mineral, etc., which are essential to many of the arts in which we never imagine that lead would be of the least use.

Verily, we live in an age of lead as well as of iron.

THE CORNISH TIN DEPOSITS.

Great English Industry Still Capable of Big Production.

Though the Cornish tin deposits have been worked from the dawn of history, experts hold that vast quantities are still to be found in this metaliferous soil. In the past twenty years Cornwall has been badly hit by the development of tin mining in the Straits Settlement.

The fall in the price of the metal caused the closing of many of the Cornish mines, and incidentally led to the migration of "Cornish Jacks," as the Cornish miner is known, to every quarter of the globe. It seemed indeed as if mining in the duchy had received a blow from which it could by no possibility recover. A few mines managed to survive, notably Dolcoath, which earned a modest profit even in the lean years when tin varied between $60 and $70 per ton.

With the metal nearly treble that price, it is not surprising that speculators and prospectors are turning avid eyes to this westernmost county.

The enhanced price of tin is likely to be permanent, for it is due to natural, not artificial, causes. Tin is the rarest of all the metals, and the world's consumption has now outgrown the supply. The world's production has averaged, in recent years, 75,000 tons, of which more than one-half has come from the Straits Settlements. About 15,000 tons per annum come from the Dutch East Indies; 5,000 tons from Cornwall; 5,000 tons from Australia, and

Dan Patch, the world's famous pacer, breaks his record at Minnesota Fair by making the mile in 1:55 flat.

Another large pearl was taken out of the river at Prairie du Chien by a clam fisherman. It is perfect in shape, white in color and weighs 38 grains.

In the ninth district, Minor was defeated by Gustav Keusterman over which good citizens rejoice. Mr. Minor received three votes as a National Republican and may run on that ticket. It is a great struggle for some of those old timers to cease feeding at the public crib.

The Monday Club is to make a study of the History of Wisconsin and Ononda County, and is to have the use of the traveling library on the Wisconsin History, this is owned by the State Federation of Women's Clubs. The officers are Miss May Brown, President, Mrs. E. G. Squier, Vice-President, Mrs. S. Suttill, Secretary, Miss Helen Brown, Treasurer.

The year books for the Woman's Club were distributed last week. The club work of the year comprises French Art and promises to be interesting and instructive. Heretofore the meetings have been for the club members and out of town guests only, but this year there are to be two meetings open to the public, Dec. 18th and March 5th. Gentlemen's night is to occur Dec. 4th. The program committee consists of the following: Mrs. E. A. Edmonds, Miss May Brown, Mrs. D. J. Cole, Mrs. John Collins, Miss Devans. The officers are Mrs. E. A. Edmonds, Pres., Mrs. S. H. Ashton, Vice-Pres., Miss May Brown, Sec., Mrs. D. H. Vaughn, Treas. The first meeting occurs Oct. 2nd at the library.

The Minnesota State Fair was a success in exhibit, weather and attendance. From year to year the Fair has grown until now it is a small exposition. We were not a little surprised to find one of the finest exhibits in country was from Roberts of Fort Atkinson, Wis.

The Jewell Nursery Co. of Lake City, Minn., had a display of apples of this year's crop that would show up with any exhibit of the kind, either at the World's Fair at Chicago or at the St. Louis Exposition.

The races were very good. Dan Patch the pacer, proved the greatest attraction in that line and the biggest attendance was on the days that he paced.

The industrial features were on a big scale and in several cases one concern occupied a whole building.

There was rauderville between races in the afternoon and continuous rauderville in the evening. Some very good entertainers were at the headquarters of Federated Clubs. In fact one would have to spend the whole week there to take in the many attractions. Those who have not had the privilege of seeing a World's Fair can find a miniature one at the Minnesota State Fair.

Price is Moderate

Hon. John C. Spooner came from his home in New Hampshire to vote at the primaries.

In the third congressional district, Babcock was renominated by about six hundred, although the natural Republican majority of the district is about seventeen thousand. This gives the democrats hope that they can defeat him at the November election.

Petitions are being circulated in the southern part of Ashland County, asking Gov. Davidson to investigate the trouble between the Chippewa Lumber and Brown Company and John Dietz of Cameron Dam. The petitions are getting a large number of signers. It is a pity that this was not thought of before.

September fourth was our first experience at voting directly for all candidates at the primaries, and seems to have given general satisfaction. While in its present form it may need some modifications, on the whole it is along the right line. It suits the half breeds who succeeded in getting it on the statute books and it pleases the stalwarts because it failed to nominate Senator LaFollette's choice for governor, Irvine L. Lenroot. It ought to be satisfactory to all classes who have a desire to see the will of the people carried out.

The cry has been that poor men could not spend the money to get nominated under this system, but this congressional district shows the contrary. Mr. Morse who is a man with limited means could not have been nominated under the old convention system. His barrel would not have been large enough while under our present system, he carries ten of the thirteen counties in the district and receives the Republican nomination and is sure of election. We congratulate the people of the district in securing a clean, able man who has always been on the right side of all public questions.

STATE EMPLOYEES GET INCREASES.

The salaries of attendants in the charitable and penal institutions have been raised about 20 per cent from the original scale. The new scale starts women at $20 with a possible raise to $30, and men starting at $20 can work up to a possible $40 a month.

ELEVENTH ANNUAL FAIR.

The display of fancy articles is good and is entirely new. None of the articles that have been on display for so many years were exhibited this year. The burnt wood display was especially good. Great variety of excellence was shown in the quality and variety of the canned fruit department. The horticulture, also made a very good display. In the culinary line it was difficult for the judges to decide upon the best among so many palatable articles. Some of the best cooks of Rhineland contributed to this department. The vegetable display shows that then the exhibit list could be enlarged upon.

Inside the plumber, Morrill and Harter, the furniture men, B. L. Horr, wood chisels, and the Nichols Hardware had splendid displays in their lines. At this writing the weather is bad, it is uncertain when the rest of the Fair will come off, but there are twenty-two horses here and the first pleasant half day tomorrow will be pulled off. Circulars will be distributed later.

AMSDEN OPERA COMPANY.

This celebrated organization will present the charming Musical Comedy, "The Governor's Wife" with a chorus of sweet singers, pretty girls and costumes. Mr. Amosen, the owner and principal comedian is one of the best in the West. Miss Hazel Amosen, the Prima Donna soprano, will be a real treat to those who enjoy music of the better class. This attraction will be at the Grand next Wednesday night.

FIRST PRIMARY ELECTION.

The Republican State ticket is unusually strong. As one glances down the list, he finds strong men who have been on the right side of all public questions.

The county ticket ought to be a winner. Some of the candidates have held their respective offices several years and are nominated without opposition from either party. Those who had opposition at the Primaries are nominated by clear-cut majorities, consequently are entitled to the vote of every Republican at the election in November. While we might differ on a single man or two the ticket as a whole ought to be satisfactory to every Republican.

Rhineland, Wis.
Gentlemen—Messrs. Leachman & Edelin, Grafton, W. Va., had been selling a paint, which they thought well of, and this had occurred.

They had sold a customer 18 gallons of it to paint his house. A few years later, they sold the same man Devocent and zinc, the same number of gallons to paint the same house. He had 7 gallons left.

The point of the tale is: 11 gallons Devocent paint an 18 gallons house. Of course, that isn't all.

Why does 11 gallons Devocent go as far as 18 gallons of other paint? Because it is all paint, all true, no sham and full measure.

But that isn't all. Devocent lasts longer. No, no, you haven't got to wait ten years to find that out. Ten thousand people know it. We've got their names. Our agents know them; they think a heap of Devocent. There's no difficulty in showing your townspeople what to expect of Devocent. $10 will paint a $15 house; and the paint'll last twice as long.

Where the Millions of Postal Cards Come From

Big Factory in Maine Which Turns Out 2,500,000 of Them Every Day for Uncle Sam

Considered from the standpoint of the individual, the postal card is such an insignificant bit of pasteboard, that few stop to think what Uncle Sam's postal card business in the total amounts to. Millions of them! Tons upon tons of them! Train loads after train loads of them! And where do they all come from? From Maine.

While the small oblong piece of cardboard, which presents the easiest way of communication through the mails, is rarely considered as a product, the fact of the matter is that cardboards upon cardboards go to the chief cities of the country. Cities like Boston and New York use on an average more than two cardboards of postal cards a month, and the making of the cardboards, the printing and the cutting are all done in Maine. At Rumford Falls this one product forms one of the great industries of the place, and it will continue to be so for at least the next four years for the government contract for the manufacture of these postal cards has just been again awarded to the paper company there.

Under the previous contracts there were manufactured during the preceding four years 2,200,000,000 postal cards and 60,000,000 were made during the month of June last.

There pass through Boston daily in registered mail cars 2,500,000 postal cards on their way from Rumford Falls, Me., to the sub-agencies scattered over the country.

The cards may be said to be entirely a Maine product. The logs are taken directly from the Maine spruce forests and chemically transformed into the pulp from which the postal paper is made at the Oxford mill.

The Mills Where Uncle Sam's Postal Cards Are Made.

After the logs have been chipped up and chemically treated the pulp flows into a big vat called the "digester." Here the pulp looks like a rich curdling, but is in reality the solution from which the cards are made—cards that will later carry written messages all over the civilized world.

The wood pulp is flowed out on a screen of such fine mesh that the paper is long in gathering, and the result of this more than ordinary thorough shaking is a firm, smooth card of the familiar cream yellow, free from inequalities of texture and free from all flakes or shadows when held to the light.

In the big, clean finishing room, where the floor is littered with a clutter of book and news paper, sit a score or more neatly attired women, busy and happy, smoothing the great sheets of book and postal stock into piles. The least defect in the surface is detected at once by their super-sensitive finger tips, and sheet after sheet is rejected for a blemish invisible save to touch.

Great trucks carry the postal paper to the printing establishment, but before the presses are set to work each truckful must be inspected by a government inspector. This inspector first applies the bulk gauge, to prove that the postal card is up to standard in thickness.

The contract requires that each sheet be one-eighth of an inch thick, and that the needle whirled around the face of the indicator and stops again at 165, all is well. The second requirement is that every sheet shall endure the test of 50 pounds pressure to the square inch. So into the strength tester goes the sheet from the truck load, the pressure is applied and the indicator shows the value of the sheet.

The "blind man's test," or German test, is the third to prove that the surface of the card is properly retined, sized or finished. It is an application of vigorous pen and ink. Should the ink be absorbed, the surface is inferior in its grade. When the markings are plainly apparent to the touch with "blind eyes," the card is satisfactory.

Each sheet of stock fed into the printing press is registered automatically, so that an exact tally can be kept of all cards printed.

The two presses have a united capacity of 3,000,000 cards daily.

As the cards are printed in big sheets the next thing to do is to cut them out the right size. There are four cutting machines. One cuts them into long strips, one postal card in width. The three smaller machines cut the strips into the postal cards of regulation size as we buy them at the post office.

Three alert young women feed these strips into the cutters. When 25 cards are bitten off by the sharp knives of the machine, the revolving rack is turned over and the quarter-hundred cards are bound into a packet with a gummed paper strip.

The girls who gum the packages together have to be very spry. With their dozen gummed strips held between their lips, their trained fingers hover over the straight edged packs of postal cards, like humming birds, till with a dash and a flutter the band is in place and a second packet is in readiness for a band.

One young woman is behind each machine to box these packets, and others are kept busy folding the pasteboard boxes in which they are packed, 500 cards being placed in a box.

The pasteboard packages are placed in wooden boxes of different sizes. They hold 5,000, 10,000 and 50,000 cards. The boxes are very strong and are nailed together at the postal card mill by machinery.

From Rumford Falls, which is called the chief agency, shipments are made to the sub-agencies, which are Washington, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Troy, N. Y.

All smaller offices in the United States must make requisition to these sub-agencies for cards, unless they are in the list of cities whose business is so extensive in postal cards as to require cardboards shipments. These are Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Kansas City, Brooklyn, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, San Francisco, Boston and New York.

The average amount of messages written in Boston on postal cards is so great that two cardloads a month are required. The New York shipment is even larger.

There is no busy season in the card mill. The same amount is printed day after day. The government requires that a certain amount must be kept on hand at the factory. These are kept in a fire and burglar proof vault which has a capacity for holding 100,000,000 cards.

Novel Life Insurance.

A curious form of life insurance was introduced some years ago in French manufacturing towns under the name of La Fournal (the ant). The peculiarity is that the longer a man lives the less he becomes entitled to. The payment of about a dollar a month assures the payment of $1,000 to the heirs of a man dying before the age of 35, the payment diminishing proportionately to $10 at 51. The idea seems to be that if a man dies young his children are likely to be in want, but when he is 50 they will be able to earn their own living.

Interesting Happenings in the Various Cities and Towns of the State.

Stop Milwaukee Northern.

Fond du Lac.—C. D. Smith, representing the Wisconsin Rapid Transit company of this city, has applied for a permanent injunction restraining the Milwaukee Northern Railway company from continuing the work of constructing an electric road between Milwaukee and Fond du Lac. The summons and complaint have already been served upon the defendants.

Mr. Smith alleges that his company staked out a right of way on Franklin avenue in Milwaukee and between Milwaukee and Fond du Lac. He claims that the Milwaukee Northern road has taken the precise line staked out by his company and that the construction of a road by this company will interfere with his plans. Mr. Smith claims that his company was the originator of the plan for the road between the two cities.

In his complaint, Mr. Smith prays for a permanent injunction on the ground that his company originated the electric line plan; that he has already staked out a right of way; has had releases from property owners filed in the register of deeds of office of Milwaukee county, and that his company proposes to build a line to cost not less than $1,200,000.

Kenosha Church Celebrates.

Kenosha.—The German Lutheran church here celebrated its golden jubilee, and hundreds of Lutherans from all parts of Wisconsin came to the city to attend the different services held in commemoration of the jubilee. The principal speakers were the Rev. E. F. Doran, of Milwaukee, a former pastor of the church, who preached the jubilee sermon in the morning, the Rev. William Streisguth of Milwaukee, the Rev. Philip Brenner of Redsville, Prof. August Peiper of Milwaukee, the Rev. Theodore Volkert of Waukegan, and the Rev. Carl Baeger, pastor of the church. During the day it was announced that the congregation was planning for the erection of a splendid new church, which it is thought will be erected before the close of another year.

Answer Swindling Charge.

Milwaukee.—W. H. Duester, former president of the West Allis Improvement company, arrested recently in Toledo while attempting to perpetrate an alleged swindling scheme, has been arraigned in the district court on a charge of embezzlement preferred by H. C. Spence on behalf of the Dodgeville Mining and Smelting company. Duester is charged with disposing of $2,500 worth of stock belonging to the mining company and with appropriating the money. Another warrant charges Duester with issuing a worthless check for $95 to William Krone June 30. Other complaints of a similar nature also have been received by the police.

Frisco Losers Being Paid.

Milwaukee.—The Milwaukee Mechanics' Fire Insurance company and the fire victims of the San Francisco disaster have reached an agreement, and losses are now being paid by the company under the safety fund law under which the Mechanics' operates. When Attorney T. W. Spence explained to the policyholders the law under which the company operates they readily accepted the terms. Sixty-five per cent. of the losses, holding about one-half of the losses, have agreed to the settlement and are now receiving their drafts.

Beloit Preacher Leaves.

Beloit.—The Rev. George R. Leavitt, pastor of the First Congregational church of this city for the last 11 years, tendered his resignation to take place in October. He has been failing in health for some time, and, being elderly, has concluded to retire from the ministry. Dr. Leavitt is one of the leaders of the denomination in the west. He is president of the Congregational State Missionary society. He came to Beloit from Cleveland and was a New Englander. His church, while realizing his physical condition, was not expecting his resignation.

Cedar Product Dealer Bankrupt.

Milwaukee.—Cyrus D. Hart, a well-known cedar product dealer of Oconto, Wis., has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States court here. His liabilities are scheduled at $12,823, all in unsecured claims. Assets amounting to $5,326 are all claimed to be exempt.

Milwaukee.—Edward Slattery, 21 years of age, shot himself while boating between Michigan lake and Big Bend, Waukesha county. Slattery tried to walk a shotgun to him by the muzzle.

Tallest Civil War Veteran.

W. F. Bane, of Niles, Pa., is the tallest G. A. R. veteran in the United States. He is seven feet high in his stocking feet, wears a No. 15 shoe and a 7 1/2 hat.

Roads Hasten to Obey Law.

Milwaukee.—Railroads in Wisconsin are making every effort to meet the requirements of the Hepburn bill, the new national railroad rate law. "All of the roads are prepared to live up to the letter of the law," declared Charles D. Thompson, general agent of the Northwestern line. "It is not believed that the rate commission will expect us to live up to the letter of the law requiring that they be posted in a conspicuous place in the depots. If they actually were posted most of the stations would have to be enlarged and the sheets pasted over every inch of all space."

"But the books containing all the rates between stations on each class of merchandise will be in the depots where they may be inspected at any time by the public."

Tow Half a Boat to Port.

Superior.—The spectacle of half a boat coming into the harbor was witnessed here when the after end of the steamer Lafayette was towed into port by the tug Zenith.

The Lafayette was one of the Steel trust boats which went ashore in the big storm of last fall. She was broken in two parts and one member of her crew was drowned. No attempt was made to save the forward end of the Lafayette, but a bulkhead was built across the after end and it was then pumped out. It was towed to Superior.

The feat is said to be the first of its kind ever accomplished. The machinery of the Lafayette, which was saved, will be put into her consort, the Manilla, converting her from a barge to a steamer.

Go Hunting and Meet Death.

Milwaukee.—The hunting season has opened with a big list of fatal accidents as the result of the careless handling of weapons. Charles Culver, of this city, was killed at Pewaukee lake by the discharge of a rifle which he was holding between his knees. Edward Slattery, of West Allis, pulled his shotgun toward him as he was getting out of a boat on Fox river. He was killed instantly. In the Michigan copper region John Smoyak was instantly killed while duck hunting. Charles Garreau, living near Marquette, was fatally wounded while in the woods.

Ten-Year-Old Boy Slays Sister.

Manston.—Lillian Schmidt, 15 years of age, was shot and killed by her ten-year-old brother Alfred. While the parents, who live on a farm, were in town the boy and his sister quarreled, and Alfred threatened to shoot Lillian, and the girl ran out into the road. Alfred, after getting a shotgun, ran after her and fired, and she fell dead. The boy ran into the woods and hid, but searching parties found him. He is now in jail here.

Plan Annual Motor Races.

Green Lake.—The Green Lake Yacht club intends to each year hold a series of races for motor, power and gas boats only. Silver cups will be awarded as championship prizes for the fastest boats, and it is not unlikely that many power and motor boat builders will become interested and Green Lake will thus become the race course for the most interesting and the most speedy type of boat races known.

Boys Shot by a Hunter.

Ashland.—Fourteen-year-old Grover Lovely poured a charge of shot into the bodies of Dewey and Willie Durant, aged 10 and 12, at Mellen, while hunting. The Durant boys ran around the corner of a house as Lovely pulled the trigger. The two wounded boys will probably die.

Dies While Husband Is in Jail.

Racine.—Mrs. Mary Streeter was found dead in bed here with her babe of a few weeks lying prattling at the side of the corpse. Mrs. Streeter died of consumption. Her husband is in jail on a charge of attempting to kill his sister-in-law in a dispute over the child.

Accidents Near Marquette.

Marquette.—Charles Garreau, aged 21, accidentally shot himself while hunting near Ishpeming. His condition is precarious. Near Boston, in the copper country, Joseph Smoyak, while hunting ducks, shot and killed himself.

Kenosha.—The funeral of Dr. William R. Cheever was held here. Many members of the Masonic order from Kenosha and other cities in southern Wisconsin attended the funeral and accompanied the remains to Waukegan.

Physician Is Asphyxiated.

Kenosha.—Dr. William R. Cheever, one of the best known physicians of the city, was found asphyxiated at his home on Exchange street.

Mrs. Cheever, the widow, and Dr. Homer Cheever, a brother, had also been overcome by the gas. Dr. Homer Cheever has recovered from the effects, but the condition of Mrs. Cheever is reported as critical.

Dr. Cheever had retired at the usual hour and a gas heater used for heating water for the bathroom had been left burning in the kitchen of the house.

HAPPENINGS OF INTEREST IN THE VARIOUS TOWNS.

SCRATCH CAUSES ARREST

Wisconsin Man Is Accused of Attempted Assault Upon a Young Woman of Lanesboro, Minn.—Threats of Summary Justice.

La Crosse.—J. A. McGill, a traveling salesman for a La Crosse tobacco house, was bound over at Lanesboro, Minn., on a charge of attempting to assault Miss Zuhl, 20 years old, a young woman living near that town. According to the evidence at the hearing, Miss Zuhl was in Rushford making purchases and left for home alone. According to her charges, McGill overtook her in a buggy, invited her to ride and when in a lonely bit of road attempted to assault her. The girl's clothing was torn from her and in the struggle McGill's face was badly scratched. This fact was strenuously denied against him when arrested.

The man is said to have been frightened away by an approaching team and the girl escaped. A large crowd of farmers had gathered at Rushford when the sheriff returned with his prisoner and the officers had considerable difficulty in protecting his man. McGill has been unable to get bail and is in jail at Preston.

Boys Play Frank and One Drowns.

Janesville.—Frank McLaughlin, aged 15 years, was drowned in Rock river. McLaughlin and a companion were returning from a picnic when they playfully took a rowboat from the shore for a short ride. When the boat was in midstream the owner missed it, and is alleged to have taken a shot at the boys, which so frightened them that the McLaughlin boy jumped and disappeared beneath the water's surface.

In Touch With a Lion.

The most uncomfortable hunting adventure that I ever had was during an expedition in search of the mines of Ophir. We did not discover them, by the way. It was many years afterward that Mr. Peters found them farther south.

We did very little hunting on that trip, except such as was necessary to provide food for the party. Consequently we did not disturb the game around our camps during our stay at any place, and the wild life of the jungle went on freely around us.

This made the scene at the water holes particularly interesting, and many times I saw herds of animals glide down to the water in the evening. Sometimes we saw gnu and antelope come down, quietly as ghosts, though there were big herds of them.

One evening I decided to spend the night at the water hole to watch the strange doings at my ease. I took along my heavy rifle, in case I should meet a lion or other cat animal, and before dusk I was comfortably hidden in a thicket right by the side of the hole where the spoor showed that the most animals entered to drink.

They began to arrive almost as soon as the sun had set. The first animals that came were small gnu, very pretty and graceful, despite the ugly hump on their shoulders. They stepped into the water as lightly as race horses, and, indeed, their hind quarters resembled those of dainty little ponies very much.

After them came a herd of zebras, gleaming spectrally with their white and black sides in the bright starlight of the African night. They tossed their little heads and snorted wildly at every whisper of the breeze, and though I was watching them closely, they were off and away so suddenly that I hardly realized that they were going before they had vanished.

Springbok and eland followed with hosts of smaller animals, many of which moved so furtively that I could not distinguish them.

But all at once all the beasts seemed to fade away like a scene in a darkened theater. I stared in amazement. The next moment I became aware of an odor close to me that I could not mistake, for I had smelled it often. It was lion sure.

Cautionously I turned my head in the way the wind was blowing, and there, within not more than 20 feet of me, crouched a great maned, tawny beast. He was watching the water hole in-the sailors say, with the grave import of it. The wind was beginning to change.

Slowly it veered. First it blew over my back. Then it began, slowly, but steadily, to veer farther around so that at last it was blowing behind the place where the lion still lay.

At that rate it would be only a few minutes before it blew directly over the beast and toward me. There was no prudence in sitting still any longer. I moved by imperceptible degrees toward my rifle. I do really think that at no time did I stir more than a quarter of an inch in any one motion. My ears, strained to their utmost, could not detect that I made the least sound. Yet I had not moved more than half the distance toward my weapon before the lion arose and looked straight at me. I threw myself over and snatched at my rifle, but missed it. In the effort I lost my balance and fell flat on my back. Instantly I felt as if all hope had gone, for I knew only too well how swift a lion's charge is.

But even as I was regaining my balance and pulling my gun toward my-

A Pretty Game for the Lawn

Tossing the "Devil" To and Fro.

This game, called "The Devil on Two Sticks," which was very popular in the last century, is coming into vogue again, says the Illustrated London News. In its general rules it resembles tennis, but there is no net, which is replaced by a rectangular court between two square corners. Instead of a racket the players use two sticks connected by a silk cord, and instead of a ball they have the so-called devil, which resembles a dice box, or two tops placed peg to peg. The devil is slung upon the cord, and is spun from the server's court into the service court. The player receiving the service allows the devil to hop once, then catches it on the silk cord and returns it if possible. The scoring is much the same as in tennis, except that at the first fault the service passes to the opponent.

tently, and the only thing that saved me was the fact that a smart breeze was blowing directly from him toward me, and thus preventing him from getting my scent.

Now while I had been watching the harmless animals I had found it easy enough to sit perfectly still, and I had not made a twig rustle enough to frighten even the shyest beast.

But now, when my life depended on absolute silence, I felt an insane desire to move. I wanted to sneeze. I wanted to cough. I wanted to stretch my arms, which began to develop cramps. My legs twitched and my neck itched. I was almost unable to control myself, and the strain of sitting still brought the perspiration to my forehead.

How long this terrible situation lasted I do not know, but all at once the strain was relieved by a discovery that brought me up "all standing," as self, there came a sound like thunder and a mass of huge objects loomed black against the sky behind the beast. Before I actually realized what happened the mass crashed past me and I had only just time to roll behind a tree.

Then I comprehended what had occurred. A herd of buffalo, coming down to drink, had scented the lion, and as is the practice of these savage brutes, they had immediately charged up wind like mad. These African buffalo have been known to charge big caravans that same way.

I stepped cautiously to where the lion had been. He was there yet—but he was stone dead, and not only stone dead, but so terribly mangled and trampled that there wasn't enough of him left to serve as a trophy.

But at any rate I was glad enough to do without a trophy in this particular case.—Boston Globe.

About a Little English Girl.

Two good stories are told of a little English girl:

She was riding with her aunt outside one of the electric trams. As it was proceeding at a good pace down a steep declivity the aunt was obviously a little nervous. The child, observing this, looked up sweetly into her aunt's face and said: "Are you frightened, auntie? Because, you can take hold of my hand if you are!"

On another occasion this little girl's grandmother had the misfortune to have the leg of the sofa on which she was reclining give way, and although it was repaired, it gave way a second time. Thereupon a chair sufficiently firm to support the aged and rather infirm woman was bought, a fact which her grandmother remembered in her prayers that evening as follows: "I thank thee, good Lord, for having at least found a chair that my dear granmamma can sit down upon."

Quips From the Professor

Two Points Scored in Humorous but Effective Manner.

"You don't seem to understand," blustered the man who was trying to make his point with a university professor. "I tell you, sir, I ought to know, I'm an alumnus of this institution myself." "Are you?" That's nothing singular," was the witty rejoinder, uttered so quietly that the blustering man never knew what had happened, says the Youth's Companion.

On another occasion the same professor, having ordered from a music publishing house a copy of a "Valse Improvisée" by a certain French composer, received an "Impromptu Waltz" by another man. The publishers, when called to account for their mistake, replied rather insolently that they had been in the music publishing business a long time, and had yet to discover the difference between a "Valse Impromptu" and an "Impromptu Waltz."

Would Dr. Smith kindly state to them that difference?

"Gentlemen," wrote the genial professor in answer. "I have not, like yourselves, been in the music publishing business, and am therefore not fully qualified to inform you; but since, in your extremity, you have appealed to me, I would venture to suggest that the difference between a 'Valse Improvisée' and an 'Impromptu Waltz' may be similar to the difference between a blind Venetian and a Venetian blind."
